Prior to working with Dan, I had a project that had been dragging on for over 6 months that was way off track, overdue and over budget. Despite working with another consultant, we never could seem to get things REALLY working. Management was getting more than annoyed about the cost and delays. Fortunately, I found Dan. In less than 30 minutes reviewing the project with us, he had a new plan of action to get us rolling; and it took him less than three days to make the changes that FINALLY got us unstuck and with a clear plan for a successful completion. I'm happy to say that I'm confident the service will soon be working in the field. I cannot recommend Velentium enough and they will be the FIRST people we call for any and all automation systems going forward.
