To Whom It May Concern:

We hired Dan to build frac truck vibration monitoring software and would highly recommend him far and above any other application developer we have used in the past. Not only does the system work exactly how we want it to, but he was incredibly easy to work with, constantly kept us up-to-date on the project status and fulfilled on every promise he made – something that we found to be rare with the other developers we've used in the past.

Based on my experience, I know for certain he will be the only person I ever use in the future for custom development projects; I wouldn't consider using anyone else and would recommend you do the same.

Sincerely,

Alex Barnett
